

Cloud-based web security designed for Enterprises

Zscaler with KDDI

World's largest global security platform

-Availability across many client's technologies

It is applicable to adapt any type of device through a centralized management console to implement a uniform company policy for all devices including devices outside of their network. There are several Zscaler access points across the globe to reduce the network latency.

-World-class security against modern attack

Our award-winning protection system completes your web security by utilizing a multi-layer security function to restrict access to SNS and set the storage capacity threshold. This translates into minimizing the risk of data leaks.

-Significant cost reduction with centralized management system

The cloud-based defense infrastructure ensures the safe use of the internet on global scale. This significantly reduces costs. Applying a uniform security policy to a company globally via a centralized management system enables significant reduction of operational cost.
